2015 ANNUAL REPORT
WINGS PROGRAM, INC.

A Message from the CEO

Dear Donors, Friends, Volunteers and Supporters:

I am pleased to share the 2015 WINGS annual report with you, which highlights the fantastic work we have accomplished over the past year. In effect, it is a look back at an incredible year of growth and expansion that will allow WINGS to continue to make real change in the lives of women and children.

Thanks to your incredible support, WINGS was able to reach new heights in its ability to serve women and children who are desperate to escape a life of domestic violence at the hands of an abuser. While in our programs, WINGS provides them with everything they need so they can focus on a better future.

In 2015, WINGS almost doubled the number of clients served through our hotline, community outreach, emergency, transitional and permanent housing, and support and counseling programs. In total, WINGS provided almost 70,000 nights of shelter in 2015.

In spite of these great strides, the need for our services is ever present, which resulted in the conceptualization of WINGS Metro two years ago. In response to the desperate need for emergency domestic violence shelter beds in the city of Chicago, WINGS came together with the City of Chicago's Department of Family and Support Services, Greater Southwest Development Corporation and Metropolitan Family Services to build WINGS Metro.

Construction was in full force in 2015 and the facility is scheduled to open in early 2016. Once open, WINGS Metro will be the first domestic violence shelter to be built in the city of Chicago in the past ten years.

Thanks to you and your enduring support, WINGS will now be the largest domestic violence agency in the state of Illinois.

Thank you for helping us break the cycle of violence in the lives of thousands of women and children in 2015. Without you, we could not give flight to hopes and dreams!

Sincerely,

The Power to Succeed

Survivor's Story

"WINGS truly helps women and children who have no other resources"
-- Jami Miller

Jami Miller and her children

In late 2005, Jami Miller made the courageous decision to leave her then-husband after suffering two hours of repeated abuse at his hands. She fled her violent home with her 1 ½ year old son and lived in her car to keep them both safe. Jami's family lived out of state and she had no infrastructure to assist her and her children.

When she heard about WINGS, she was overwhelmed and grateful. "If it hadn't been for WINGS I would have felt completely hopeless, isolated and alone," Jami said.

She and her son moved into the Safe House where they received emergency shelter, counseling and other resources. Jami successfully filed an order of protection against her husband and began the slow healing process. "The Safe House made me feel safe in those early days," Jami said.

In January 2006, Jami moved into her own apartment through the WINGS program and continued to rebuild her life. She successfully graduated from the program after two years of receiving services.

Ten years later, Jami has moved on to a stable and self-sufficient life, free of violence and fear.

WINGS Programs

WINGS programs seek to provide comprehensive services to help women and children escape a life of violence and to move on to self-sufficient and safe lives. WINGS implements its mission through two core programs:

HOUSING

SAFE HOUSE/ SUBURBAN CHICAGO

The 45-bed Safe House provides emergency shelter for women and children who are fleeing the devastating effects of domestic violence. Families can stay up to six weeks in a secure, home-like environment that allows women to live in safety and comfort while they determine the next steps of their lives.

WINGS METRO/ DOWNTOWN CHICAGO

A new initiative launched in 2013 and set to open in early 2016, WINGS Metro will include 40 shelter beds, a suite-style living environment, laundry facilities, private garden and play space, a multipurpose room and a computer lab. As a result of the collective support services provided by WINGS and Metropolitan Family Services, residents of WINGS Metro will gain immediate safe housing and family assistance, employment, financial and housing counseling, legal and therapeutic services, court advocacy, access to support groups, early childhood education and child-care, youth development and after school programs. In 2016, WINGS Metro will be on track to provide services to over 200 women and children in the first year.

TRANSITIONAL HOUSING

Unemployed women and their children can live in one of WINGS shared living homes for up to 6 months while the mother seeks employment. Employed mothers can move into WINGS apartments while paying 30% of their adjusted gross income toward rent. Both transitional housing programs are designed to provide families who have been the victims of domestic violence with the skills and independence they need to continue on their journey to leading self-sufficient lives.

COUNSELING AND COMMUNITY-BASED SERVICES

Counseling is provided to women and children in our housing programs, as well as the community at large. WINGS community-based services can be found inside non-residential locations such as Northwest Community Hospital, St. Alexius Hospital, the Partners for Our Communities Center in Palatine, and Community Connections Center in Mt. Prospect

WINGS staffs a hotline in partnership with the Illinois domestic violence hotline network to provide immediate assistance to victims over the phone. Counseling from trained staff members and referrals are provided to callers who are in need of services and/or emergency and safe housing.

WINGS Metro

Thanks to the support of so many, WINGS Metro will open its doors on February 14, 2016. The new shelter will be able to provide 40 women and children each and every night with a safe place to escape the devastating effects of domestic violence.

In cooperation with Metropolitan Family Services and Greater Southwest Development Corporation, WINGS came together in 2013 and began plans to build the first domestic violence shelter opened in Chicago in over a decade.

The City of Chicago, with support from Mayor Rahm Emanuel, provided a grant and donated the land. Numerous donors worked tirelessly to bring the project to life. Jenner & Block provided hundreds of hours of pro bono legal services in drafting documents with the City and WINGS partners. The WINGS Metro site converted a former Police District facility and constructed a new annex to the building.

WINGS Metro will feature 40 shelter beds, a suite-style living environment, state-of-the-art kitchen, meeting rooms, laundry facilities, private garden and play space, a multi-purpose room, computer lab and lounge. This new Safe House will provide women and children who are seeking refuge and a pathway to freedom and self-sufficiency with everything they need to get their lives on track.

With the new shelter up and running, WINGS will increase the number of shelter beds in the City of Chicago by 36%.

Our Resale Stores

"When you give us good stuff we can do GREAT things"

WINGS three Resale Stores provide critical income that allows us to carry out our mission of providing housing, integrated services, education and advocacy to end domestic violence. The resale store concept first became a reality in 1999 when WINGS staff decided to find the best use of the enormous influx of donations received through the kindness of the local community, businesses and groups.

WINGS Resale Stores offer the best in resale merchandise

After ensuring that WINGS residents receive the items they require, WINGS staff and volunteers sort through donations and distribute the items to sell at one of the three WINGS resale stores. "We strive to give our customers an outstanding shopping experience by offering them the best in resale merchandise in a clean and friendly atmosphere," said Diane Coverstone, Area Manager for all WINGS Resale Stores.

Furniture is also available

Survivors are also provided with vouchers to shop for themselves and their children. Access to items in the resale stores further assists WINGS residents in moving on to more productive and violence-free lives.

The stores are staffed primarily by volunteers who assist in the operation of the stores, with few paid sales staff. This arrangement ensures that the maximum amount of funding is allocated to our programs and services.

WINGS stores are located in Schaumburg, Arlington Heights and Niles, Illinois. For more information about our resale operations or to make a donation of goods, please contact: Diane Coverstone at dcoverstone@wingsprogram.com.

RITA AND JOHN CANNING - True Angels and Life Savers to WINGS Residents

Rita and John Canning's philanthropy was launched years ago after seeing a news story about the death of a 5 year-old boy by gang members. The Canning's immediately set up a scholarship program for other children who were in need of positive role models and support, and today provide 100 scholarships to children in low-income schools.

Rita's desire to "be someone who stands up for those who can't defend themselves" and her passion to help victims of domestic violence prompted her involvement with WINGS. She had a vision of a place where women and children could go to be safe and re-build their lives, and in 2001 she began her campaign to make that happen. Through Rita's tenacity, WINGS Safe House opened in January 2005 and has been home, and a sanctuary, to more than 5,000 survivors of domestic violence.

John and Rita Canning

Rita and John's commitment, guidance, support, and business insight have been an integral part of the success of WINGS. Their strong belief in giving back to their community is what drives them. "We must pay attention to what's going on in our neighborhoods. We have many worthy causes and excellent services right here in our own backyard," Rita says. John echoes that sentiment, "We like supporting WINGS because all of our money stays local. It's a good investment"

Without Rita and John Canning's support of those in need, we shudder to think what would have happened to all of the lives they have impacted. They are true life savers and angels!

EILEEN FISHER Partnership

In early 2015, EILEEN FISHER became a committed partner of WINGS as we began plans for an innovative Survivor Art Project that centered on paintings created by domestic violence survivors. EILEEN FISHER was generous enough to host a one-day fundraiser at their Chicagoland stores to benefit the project. Proceeds from a portion of the sales netted $18,000 for WINGS.

EILEEN
FISHER

"We love the creative art component of the project and are very supportive of the healthy aspect of the work," said Kim Austad, Store Leader at the Highland Park EILEEN FISHER store.

The project, set to begin in January 2016, will be open to all domestic violence survivors, and will be led by a WINGS graduate. The artwork will be displayed on the walls at our Safe House, WINGS Metro, WINGS administrative offices, and at our 30 transitional housing units.

WINGS will be seeking sponsorships for the artwork, with a portion of the funds being given to the artist who created it. "We want to encourage these women to be proud of all that they have accomplished and achieved as survivors of domestic violence," said Rebecca Darr, CEO of WINGS.

We are grateful for EILEEN FISHER'S partnership with WINGS, and their recognition of the critical work we are doing in our community.

How You Can Help

Four fabulous volunteers (from top, Linda Wright, Debbie Herst, Larry Lorenz, Phyllis DeFilippo)

WINGS relies heavily on its volunteer base, whether through donations of time, talent, treasures or all of the above. WINGS volunteers work at our events, in our resale stores, at the administrative offices, at our housing facilities, and in any number of capacities to help us implement our mission. Without our volunteers, we would be unable to provide the services to the women and children who need us.

To volunteer as an individual, group or business, please contact Bruna Srb at 847-519-7820, extension 218 or bsrb@wingsprogram.com.

To make a financial contribution of any kind, please contact Terri Channer at 847-519-7820, extension 210 or tchanner@wingsprogram.com.

To sponsor or attend one of our events, please contact Nikki Katrodia at 847-519-7820, extension 233 or nkatrodia@wingsprogram.com.

If you are interested in hosting a Wish List Drive or making an in-kind donation, please contact Shelley Welch at 847-577-4668, extension 301 or swelch@wingsprogram.com.
